"Tell him there's a Post come from my master, with his horn full of good news."

President Coolidge plans to make "sea hops" safer, so we can confidently expect that a law eliminating all risk from transatlantic flight will be another triumph of the Republican party.

Here's one Republican party indicated—Gov. Ed Jackson doesn't find the grand jury's horn so full of good news and it looks as though they'd have to rename Indiana the Hoosier State.

In the middle of the walk, in Faragut Square, a grackle lies, mute evidence of the dangers of aviation, but this tragedy of the air will cause no postponement of the annual flight to Florida. "Bye-bye, Blackbird!" Let us hope that the Navy Department doesn't try to chain our Walter Raleigh of the sky to the Plymouth Hoe of a timid mahogany deck.

And if Drake's expedition against the Don wasn't a stunt flight what was it, pray?

It is gratifying to observe, as any nearsighted person must, that Miss Illinois is in good shape. "Thou art fair and young, thine eyes like twin stars shining; But ere another day be sprung All these will be declining."

France raises a terrible uproar by putting on a prohibitory tariff against the United States. Copy cat!

"Over the mountains And over the waves, Under the fountains And under the graves"—

Schles' and Brock cheat old Father Neptune and hop off from Hongkong bound for Shanghai, while Miss Elder hops to Tampa, with her eye on Paris. Fortunately for the progress of civilization, the advancement of learning, the conquest of the unknown, nobody thought to call Magellan's trip around the world a "stunt flight."

Rear Admiral Moffett's recommendation that leave for naval fliers will be held up, by way of clipping their adventurous wings, puts him in line for Capt. Reece's job "commanding of the Mantelpiece!"

"A feather bed had every man, Warm slippers and hot water can, Brown Windsor from the captain's store A valet, too, to every four."

The young ladies of America having displayed their charms to the gaping multitudes of Atlantic City in garbs that would have got a member of the Black Crook chorus 30 days in the Nineties, may now console themselves with the reflection that modesty is a state of mind.

Rapid City enjoys that fame which once immortalized the what's the name of that famous place up in the Adirondacks, anyhow?

Lynchburg judge's decision that a person to be intoxicated must be sufficiently under the influence of liquor to do harm to himself and others upsets the judicial precedent established by the late Ivory G. Kimball when he laid it down that a man who had taken a glass of beer was drunk.

Geneva congratulates the United States on being in the League of Nations without letting anybody at home get onto the fact.

Grandma Bennett, of Chicopee Falls, celebrates her 101st birthday by taking an airplane ride to Old Orchard, Me., thus dispelling the idea that all the flying grandmas are in the Navy.

The New York woman who is suing for divorce on grounds that her husband whistles late at night, eats candy in bed and curses her in German doubtless lumped the charges from sheer inability to decide which count of the indictment was strongest.

Having inherited $500,000 George II decides to try to regain the crown of Greece, but we strongly advise him to invest this capital in a restaurant.

Mayor Jimmy Walker interviews Mussolini and finds him sitting as pretty as though he were the Grand Sachem of Tammany Hall.

President Coolidge is on his way home and Sunday night will pitch his tepee in the wide open spaces of the East room.

The Italians in Northern Africa are so unsophisticated that they're still killing insurgents instead of bandits.

Mr. Lowman confirms the general impression of prohibition agents.

HIS WIFE AND GIRL DEAD

Enid, Okla., Sept. 9 (A.P.)—Gov. Charles Bailey, pastor of the Episcopal Church here, returned to Enid today to face questioning in connection with the deaths of his wife and a daughter as the result of which Mary Atkinson, 26-year-old nurse, was being detained by county officers.

Robert I. Marsh, Indianapolis, formerly a law partner of Gov. Jackson and counsel for the Marion County Chapter of the Ku Klux Klan, also was named in the same indictment, as was George V. Coffin, Republican county chairman.

D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan and now a life convict at the Michigan City, Ind., prison, conspired with Jackson, Coffin and Marsh in the effort to bribe McCray, the indictment set forth.

Stephenson testified before the grand jury several weeks ago after he had issued a statement from his prison cell saying that he had been "double-crossed" for the last time and was ready to tell "all."

All Under Bond.

The statute of limitations does not apply, the grand jury held, for the reason that the men concealed the facts concerning the purported bribe.

All the indicted men were under bond tonight, having surrendered themselves to the sheriff within a few hours after they had been informed of the grand jury's action.

"I want to be arrested," Gov. Jackson told Sheriff Omer Hawkins as he entered his office. A bond of $2,500 was provided immediately. The governor, as well as the others, declined to make statement.

McCray was tried in the county court but not convicted. He later was convicted in Federal court of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud and sentenced

DAUGHTER IS BORN TO JAPAN'S RULERS

Nation Had Hoped for a Son to Be the Heir Apparent; Second Princess.

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

Tokyo, Sept. 9.—The imperial consort, Empress Nagako, has presented the nation with a second princess and the high hopes of the nation that an heir to the throne would be born have changed to disappointment.

The emperor, Hirohito, had a sword ready to present in the event that a boy was born, but substituted for it a skirt as the first gift to his second daughter.

The worst disappointment is that of Prince Chichibu, eldest brother of the emperor and next in line for the succession until the emperor has a son. Prince Chichibu had half finished a course at Oxford when he was recalled yesterday morning, it was learned today.

Four bandits were killed and six were wounded, two seriously. The marines, who captured considerable ammunition, arms and supplies, suffered no casualties.

American Marines and Nicaraguan constabulary are stated to have been sent to the Department of Nueva Scotia, where bandits murdered three farmers by cutting off their heads.

SUPPORT TO MINERS ON STRIKE IS VOTED BY A.F.O.L. COUNCIL

Coal Workers of Pennsylvania to Be Urged to Use Political Power, Green Says.

EVICTIONS FROM HOMES CHARGED TO OPERATORS

Settlement Expected Monday
in Tie-Up Which Has Paralyzed Illinois Mines.

(Associated Press.)

The American Federation of Labor announced yesterday that its executive council had voted unanimously to assist the United Mine Workers of America in the existing controversy between union miners and coal operators in western and central Pennsylvania, where it is estimated 80,000 miners have been on a strike since April 1.

Action came after Philip Murray, vice president, and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, had discussed the situation, and President Green, of the Federation of Labor, said the steps would be taken by the executive council to "arouse the workers of Pennsylvania to use their political power."

"The information submitted to the executive council," Mr. Green continued, "showed that miners and their families have been deported from their local corporations and that thousands of coal and iron police had been deputized to terrorize the striking miners and their families. These coal and iron police, while deputized by the State and county authorities, are paid by the steel companies and coal corporations."

"It is the purpose of the American Federation of Labor to consider ways and means by which we can render assistance to the United Mine Workers of America in their efforts to protect the members in their homes and to present their constitutional and economic rights."

"Because of the attitude of the political powers which control the situation in Pennsylvania, the executive council will consider plans by which it can arouse the workers of Pennsylvania to use their political power in behalf of their friends and in opposition to their enemies."

Settlement Expected Monday.

Chicago, Sept. 9 (A.P.)—A week-end of armamenting will bring all factions in the Illinois coal tie-up into agreement on the basis of a settlement of the dispute which has paralyzed the industry since April 1, leaders in both camps anticipated.

Both the miners' and operators' representatives on the subcommittee of four named by a wage conference to argue a settlement along economic lines advised yesterday that a settlement they had made some progress. They will meet over the week-end and report back Monday.

George B. Harrison, one of the operators' two vice-chairmen, said they expected to make a definite report Monday, but declined to say whether it would be favorable or unfavorable to settlement.

It was expected the settlement is reached it will be a compromise. The operators are understood to be willing to continue the Jacksonville wage scale if, in turn, the miners will agree to several changes in working rights which it is felt for them to shift employees and in opposition to their now consider "dead times."

John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, expects a conference to be held and it is understood he advised the conferees as to the way their proposals could be phrased so as not to conflict with the international policies of the union.

COOLIDGE WILL CONSIDER PRIVATE LOAN TO FRANCE

Government Sanction to Depend on Merits of the Case, Rapid City Says.

$100,000,000 IS SOUGHT

Rapid City, S. Dak., Sept. 9 (A.P.)—An attempt by France to float a loan in this country from private parties will receive the consideration of President Coolidge and Governmentсанctioned if the merits of such a loan will be decided upon the merits of the case.

Although the administration had pursued a policy of withholding same of private loans here to countries which have not settled their war debts with America, Mr. Coolidge will not decide in advance on the proposed plea of France.

France, it is understood here, seeks $100,000,000 to refund a previous loan floated in America. However, it has not formally informed this Government of its intent to do so. The President feels it would be very improper for those who have the responsibility for determining on the wisdom of the loan to decide in advance on a hypothetical case and suppositional questions.

France has not acted upon the war debt settlement arranged a year ago by its ambassador at that time, Mr. George E. Foster, when the DeGaulle mission. As a result opportunity has arisen in some congressional quarters against this Government giving permission to France to obtain another loan.

(Associated Press.) Senator Harrison, a Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, declared today that this Government should take no affirmative position against a private French loan in this country until France has agreed to fund her war debt to the United States.

PRESIDENT SPEEDS
EAST AFTER SAYING
GOOD-BY TO HILLS

All Rapid City Turns Out to Bid Farewell to Region's Distinguished Guest.

PLEASURE OF VACATION
REVIEWED IN ADDRESS

Executive Expresses Regret Duties of Office Require Return to Capital.

By CARLISLE BARGERON, Staff Correspondent of The Post.

Rapid City, S. Dak., Sept. 9.—President Coolidge was homeward bound tonight and that fireman surely was busy. The black smoke was coming out of the stack and curling itself up against the sky. Every now and then there was a piercing whistle like the scream of a coyote and the train steamed on through the night.

And as the President slept he must have dreamed of his send-off, as remarkable as the one as the Washington newspaper men have ever seen.

Early this morning the fire whistle blew for the last time. The band paraded all around town and a megaphone man rode around shouting: "Everybody go up to the schoolhouse at 11 o'clock," and everybody did. This little town of 7,500 population literally packed the schoolhouse, a capacity of 1,500 or 2,000 of them, gathered before the schoolhouse at the appointed hour. And these 1,500 or 2,000 must have been bedridden, because there were no men and women in the crowd who could hardly walk. They were swathed in bandages, men and women just in from the ranch, touched with the hue of the countryside. They were all there and the tears that were yet to come.

And this is the way they have accepted the President of the United States.

He vetoed their most important farm relief bill, but that is something that has happened in the past. No accusations have been made since he came and the newspaper men have wondered from whence came the support of the measure which the South Dakota delegation in Congress gave to it.

The State certainly has not favored the President, it is hard for the Washington newspaper men to find any individual that did. Such is the way this State received the President.

Tribute to Norbeck.

He has appreciated this sentiment, too. Today he spoke most highly of one who has always been considered an insurgent, Senator Peter Norbeck. It was Senator Norbeck who did not worry about what "the people" might think and who met the President when he entered the State. He who has ever been a soliloquy of his comfort since Senator McMaster has not done this.

When the presidential party entered the State the junior senator, who comes up for reelection next year, was strangely absent. His children were in school, so that it was explained, and he was remaining with them but, nevertheless, he was not there. But Senator Norbeck was. He has insisted throughout the summer that his courtesies had no political significance.

Will Rogers Asks
Why Land Planes
Fly Over the Sea

Special to The Washington Post. Burbank, Calif., Sept. 9.—I just want to ask one question. When I get it answered it will relieve me and perhaps others.

If a flier was going from New York to Frisco, where it is all overland—you never see them do it with a hydroplane—where they can land only on the water. Then, why is it they take a land plane across the ocean? No one has disappeared yet over the water in a hydroplane.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Mayor V. T. Jepson, who spoke to the party the night it arrived and was entertained at a fish fry at the Elks Club, was the one who formally told the President he was good-by today, and here is what he said:

"The people of Rapid City are here to tell you good-by, Mr. President. We hope you have had a good time and we hope you will come back again."

Thanked by President.

The President said in reply: "My fellow citizens: I want to thank you, Mr. Mayor, and fellow citizens, for coming out here, and sending your numbers to express your farewell greetings to me and my family and my associates in public office. We have had a very pleasant and, I might say, very wonderful summer. The journey out here was extremely interesting."

"The people came to the stations all the way from Washington to Rapid City to greet us in great numbers, and my experience here has been exceedingly pleasant. The hospitality that we have been extended to us has been nothing less than remarkable. I recall the great crowd of people that assembled at the station and along your streets to greet us when we arrived. We have been here to see a great deal of the life of this community here and this surrounding neighborhood. I have visited some of the Federal projects in South Dakota, the dry farming experiment station and the irrigation and irrigation projects. I am glad to see that they are all working so successfully."

"I have seen the country developed through the growing season of the summer, the state of alfalfa raised up in the lowlands, the wheat, the wheat and the oats and the cattle, all of them becoming ready for harvesting and the market."

Grateful for Gifts.

"I judge from what has been told me, and from my own observation, that you have had a successful season throughout this locality and this neighborhood, and everywhere that we have gone there has been much evidence presented to us of your appreciation of the fact that we came here and of your great desire to extend your hospitality. We have been the recipients of many, many presents, for which we are very grateful."

"We are about to return now to Washington. I am sorry to leave this place. I am attached to it, but of course the duties of my office require me to leave the city of Washington during the coming days, and it has been for the development of invention, for the navigation of the air, and the use of airplanes to transport man, it would not have been possible for a President of the United States to spend so much time in this country so far away from Washington. Perhaps with further development it will be easier in the years to come for a President to be away from Washington and come closer in touch with the different parts of the country and understand more thoroughly and more clearly their needs and their requirements."

Hopes for Another Visit.

"I have been under obligation to all your people to make an obligation to your two senators and your three representatives, who have done everything that they possibly could to make our stay here pleasant and agreeable."

"I know that Senator Norbeck had a great deal to do in the establishment of the State here. He has had our summer residence. It is a fine thing to have a park of that kind. You will appreciate it more perhaps in the future than you do now. There will be brought together there and available for the future many of those things you want to keep memories of the nature of this region, the animal life, the bird life, the tree life, and all of those things that have gone to make up the romantic history of the Black Hills of South Dakota. I am especially grateful to Senator Norbeck. I regard him as one of the great men of the country and that your State may well honor in the way that it does.

"In taking my leave I want to express again my very deep appreciation for all the hospitality that has been bestowed upon us and my hope that in the future I may make many visits to this pleasant and remarkable locality."

Until the death of King Ferdinand of Roumania George and his royal consort, Elizabeth, received only $10,000 a year. Now they have $500,000, bequeathed to them by Ferdinand. Elizabeth's father, and friends say they plan an active campaign to regain the throne.

George, known to be in frequent touch with influential Greeks in Athens, is quoted as having told a friend recently: "The Greek people will soon sicken of revolutionary leaders and call me back. I hold myself at the service of the Greek people. I am sure that my subjects, if honestly conducted, would show the people want a monarchy."

In their enforced exile George and Elizabeth have always signed themselves King and Queen.

Price, Utah, Sept. 9 (A.P.)—Hundreds of persons were marooned in Central Utah today following two days of heavy rains that left transportation systems crippled, flooded numerous mines and damaged crops. No loss of life was reported.

Eight bridges and a section of road-

Upward of 200 motor cars were delayed in canyons near here and while a week will be required to repair the main highways, one road was opened today to permit movement of most of the stranded automobiles.

While the storm was limited to rain in this section, reports from Northern Rocky Mountain States indicated heavy snow in passes over the higher ranges.

PRaise OF WILSON VOICED BY DAWES
AT LEGION DINNER

Baker Also Receives Tribute;
Paris Pilgrims Told to Remember War Dead.

PERSHING IS CONFIDENT IN VETERANS' ATTITUDE

Convention in France Will Be Attended by 27,000;
12,000 on the Sea.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.)—Tribute to Woodrow Wilson, "Our Great President," was paid tonight by Vice President Charles G. Dawes at a farewell dinner to American Legion members given abroad the Leviathan which sails tomorrow for Paris. Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker was praised by Gen. John J. Pershing.

"Now that the tumult has died away," the Vice President said, "the country is just beginning to sense the great service to humanity rendered by our great war Presidents, Woodrow Wilson, and by our great war Secretary, Newton D. Baker. Both of them were war-time Secretaries of War as men of conviction and action."

A reminder of the solemnity that will attend their march through the streets of Paris in memory of their dead comrades of the allied forces was given members of the American Legion by Mr. Dawes in his address.

"Remember as you march that you will revive in the minds of the immense throng the thoughts of their dead who would have gladly marched with you. Don't let the spirit of the dead be dimmed; all will watch you through their tears. Remember as you march that your comrades who died to give you victory are by your side in spirit."

"Looking upon you, then, will be the members of French families from which went out 1,324,000 young Frenchmen to their death. The total war casualties of France, including the dead, were about 15 per cent of her population. If you had been in the same proportion they would have amounted to nearly 17,000,000. To nearly every French family the war brought a tragedy."

Hearts of All Go Out.

The Vice President assured the Legionnaires that after the solemnities of their march under the Arch of Triumph and past the grave of the Unknown Soldier had been completed, there would be enough time for a full review when they turned to the light-hearted renewal of the old comradeships and old associations of France.

Gen. John J. Pershing, honorary national commander, Howard P. Savage, national commander of the legion, assisted by Count de Sartiges, charge d'affaires of the French Embassy, and Mrs. Adeline Wright Macaulay, president of the women's auxiliary of the legion, reverently laid the wreath on the tomb.

The matted colors of the legion formed an impressive background as a military guard stood at attention and officials stood purchased during the brief ceremony. Representatives of the Italian and Japanese governments attended, as well as members from the various legion posts, each with its individual banner. The banner made by the Cuban veterans of California was fashioned in two pieces. It was divided at the tomb, and the second half will be placed on the Unknown Soldier's grave in Paris. Mrs. Walker and later members of their party were presented by the rector of the American College.

They entered the apostolic palace as the numerous Knights Guards stood at rigid attention. Other guards with their helmets and halberds, presented arms as the papal master of ceremonies approached the visitors and escorted them into an adjoining room, where the "sediari," bearers of the papal sedan chair, were all dressed in brilliant scarlet uniforms.

The party then passed through a number of beautiful rooms, all adorned with priceless ancient tapestries, being saluted as they passed by gendarmes in full-dress uniforms. Mayor Walker and his party were received at the papal antechamber, where the noble guard in brass helmets, composed exclusively of Roman noblemen, were on duty.

Met by Pontif.

Son of the Pope, the young cardinal, who came to meet them almost at the door. The Mayor and Mrs. Walker knelt and kissed the Pope's hand, but the pontiff paternalistically raised a smile and asked them to sit next to him. Conversation was then started into word with Mgr. Burke acting as interpreter.

Pershing Praises Legion.

Gen. Pershing in a voice ringing with sincerity declared that he placed his faith on the legion: "I had no doubt of their ability to uphold the dignity of the United States abroad" and that he had the "same confidence in the integrity, patriotism and good sense of the legionnaires" as he had in this pilgrimage that he had when, as soldiers, I sent them time and again into battle."

"There was too much of suffering and tragedy in their lives, he said, "to permit me to doubt that they do."

"They are going over under an peace through the fellowship of comradeship to strive for the security of the world and of man."

After the ceremony, Commander Savage and his party returned to New York, accompanied by Admiral Robert C. Cooley, U. S. Navy, Capt. John A. Lejeune, and Lt. Col. J. V. O'Connor, president of the United States Shipping Board. Commander Savage and the legionnaires with him, will sail for France today aboard the Leviathan.

NOTABLES SAILING TODAY

Grouped about the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery, American legionnaires yesterday paid tribute to their departed comrades by placing an enormous wreath on the shrine as their last official act before the Paris convention. Howard P. Savage, national commander of the legion, assisted by Count de Sartiges, charge d'affaires of the French Embassy, and Mrs. Adeline Wright Macaulay, president of the women's auxiliary of the legion, reverently laid the wreath on the tomb.

Gen. John J. Pershing, honorary national commander, Howard P. Savage, national commander and the other legionnaires addressed himself when he said:

"I speak for your comrades who are unable to go to us, those heard and those who are still with us, who are telling you, 'We can't go to France, it is a bitter disappointment to us that we cannot go. We sense deeply the importance of your historic visit and pray for you a safe journey and that you will return to France may strengthen the bonds of our traditional and unbroken friendship."

"May I say that in the hearts of your comrades who will be here at home but watching you, and in the hearts of all those in France and the United States who are still with us, there is in the war, is the great and abiding hope that the dead be kept uppermost in the minds of all. Thinking of you they will be the bereaved American families whose boys, lost in the conflict, are sleeping in the soil of France."

FEDERAL RESERVE CONTROVERSY.

Conflict of authority within the Federal Reserve system has brought about open division between the member banks and the Federal Reserve Board. The central agency, for the first time in its history, has forced a member bank—that in Chicago—to lower its rediscount rate. The immediate charge is that the board is attempting to establish a "central" bank, and that the regional theory written into the Federal reserve act has been broken down. It is threatened to take the fight into Congress, so that the issue, which was a national one in Andrew Jackson's day, may once more come to the front.

There is, for the moment, a ridiculous side to the controversy. Chicago appears to have taken the mayoralty campaign speeches of William Hale Thompson seriously. The financial interests of that city have revived the mayor's feud with King George, and made it fit the present situation. Bankers and newspapers charge that the Federal Reserve Board is dominated by the Bank of England in fixing the rediscount rate. The battle cry again is "Keep King George out of Chicago."

Actually the Federal Reserve Board appears to have been actuated by more selfish motives in desiring to obtain a reduction in the rediscount rate. Money has been so plentiful that the Federal reserve rate no longer attracted business to the member banks. In order to meet this competition a lower rate was suggested. Chicago ignored the hint. Meanwhile all of the member banks, save Chicago and Minneapolis, cut their rate. Under an old, and heretofore neglected, ruling the Federal Reserve Board ordered the reduction in Chicago. A minority of the board and all of the member banks appear to resent the board's action. Regional control is dear to the banks, which make up the system, and they are quick to challenge any movement toward centralization.

The threat to carry the fight to Congress is made by some of the men who framed the Federal reserve act. They are convinced that regional and not central control was the intent of the House and Senate when they enacted the statute. They wish to clarify this point. In doing so they may be following a dangerous course. There is an element in Congress only too anxious to tinker with the Federal Reserve system. Proponents of the Nation's financial structure sought to avoid any such happening at the last session of Congress by extending the Federal reserve charter in perpetuity. It may be difficult to close the question again, if it is reopened. There are many proposals, which if incorporated into the law, would do more harm than the present difference of opinion between the board and the member banks.

The Federal Reserve system, as it stands, has proven itself to be too valuable an adjunct of the Nation's financial machinery to be redrawn at the whim of every Congress and to the eternal confusion of business.

TRAFFIC IN TOKYO.

Prominently posted in the central police station in Tokyo, Japan, are a list of traffic instructions written in the English language. Regulations are given for passing "the wandering horse" and "the festive dog that shall sport in the roadway," but the most interesting of all concerns human pedestrians, regarding which the regulations say:

When a passenger of the foot hove in sight, tootle the horn. Trumpet at him. Melodiously at first, but if he still obstacles your passage, tootle him with vigor and express by word of mouth the warning, "Hi! Hi!"

There must be queer automobiles in Japan, equipped with novel accessories. Where can a horn be found elsewhere which one can "tootle"? Some may be tooted; some may be pooh-pooped or mooh-moosed, but tootling is out of the question. As far as tootling melodiously, and them with vigor if the pedestrian persists in obstructing the roadway, that is far too difficult an accomplishment for the average American motorist to master. How fortunate it is that things are more simple over here, and that a "hoo-hoo" means exactly that which the sound conveys.

COTTON CROP ESTIMATES.

From year to year when the overproduction of cotton on the plantations of the South is followed by the natural decline in the price of that staple, Southern senators and representatives have arisen from their seats on the floor of the House or the Senate to denounce the Crop Reporting Board of the Department of Agriculture. Several members have, on more than one occasion, insisted upon the abolition of the board on the ground that its estimates are invariably based on unreliable data and that no credence whatever can be placed in them.

On Thursday, when the estimate for April was made public by the Department of Agriculture, the cotton exchange in New York halted its operations for ten minutes in order that the report might be received. When it was read it showed that the Government estimate of the 1927 crop was placed $800,000 below that predicted a month ago. The effect was immediate. Cotton jumped $10 a bale and several paper fortunes were supposed to have been made as a result.

It will be interesting to note the remarks of Southern members in Congress this winter should it be proved, following the ginning of the last bale, that the crop as picked is greater than the estimate, with a corresponding slump in the price. On the other hand, should the yield be less than the estimate, with an advance in the price, the Southerners will, of course, have an opportunity to advise their colleagues that they "told them so as far back as last year."

A WISE STEP.

Sober judgment will command the Navy Department for its action in withdrawing the permission granted Lieut. L. W. Curtin and Ensign S. V. Edwards to accompany Maj. Rene Fonck on his transatlantic air voyage. The two officers are on active duty with the Navy. They contemplated making the flight while on leave. The right of the Navy to forbid their going is unquestionable. The initial view was that the experience which they might have gained would have benefited them in their careers. The hazards have been proved too great to make the opportunity either practicable or profitable.

The Navy Department's order does more than put a stop to the plans of these two officers. It places the official stamp of disapproval on purposeless transoceanic flights. There was no other way in which the Government could limit the activities of those who held their lives so lightly. No statute could reach those to whom the venture was either a "stunt" or a "thrill." The example which the Government has now set should serve the purpose, which all of those vitally interested in aviation, and not the mere sacrifice of human lives, have sought.

There are other ways in which officers of the Navy can fit themselves for aerial warfare. There are duties involving much less risk which will benefit naval aviation to a far greater extent than a mad dash across the Atlantic. Men with the courage to undertake such a task are too valuable to lose. Their long and useful lives are more to be desired than temporary glory or a quick death.

AN OPPORTUNITY LOST.

Lieut. Alford J. Williams will be unable to get his specially constructed racing plane to Italy in time for the Schneider Cup races at the end of the month. The announcement has occasioned general disappointment.

Following the last Schneider race, the Navy announced that in the future it would not participate in speed contests of any kind, and it appeared as though the United States would get no further chances at the coveted trophy. Lieut. Williams, however, undertook to build a plane with funds raised by private subscription. Powered with a 1,260 horsepower, 12-cylinder engine, preliminary tests of the ship he built indicated that it was capable of breaking all existing records, and hope ran high that the trophy would be brought back to the United States. Trouble dogged preliminary tests of the plane, however, and finally Lieut. Williams has been forced to give up hope of competing at Venice because time is lacking in which his ship can be got into perfect condition.

The public applauds the zeal with which Lieut. Williams, in the face of many obstacles, attempted to get the ship ready, and regrets that he has had to taste the bitter cup of disappointment. Wheels will be substituted for pontoons on the racer, however, and attempts will be made forthwith to regain land plane speed honors, now held by France at 278 miles an hour. If this distinction is won by the American owned, built and piloted plane, it will constitute ample compensation for loss of the chance at the Schneider Cup.

THE DAVIS CUP.

The odds are now against France in its challenge for the Davis Cup. The American doubles team of Tilden and Hunter yesterday resisted the assault of the invaders in a desperate five set match. The advantage of matches played favors the United States, and its representatives need only win one of today's encounters to retain the trophy. The task before the French players is so difficult as to seem almost impossible.

The triumph of the United States, which now seems certain, is a personal tribute to the skill of Tilden. The ranking American player has confounded those of his critics, who predicted his passing with this year's play for the international trophy. In his singles match on Thursday and again yesterday he was the brilliant Tilden of old. The two matches which the American has won have been due to his skill and stamina.

This was the difficult year for the United States. The inroads of professional tennis had robbed it of one, if not more, of its best players. The veterans were left to repel the invaders. They seem equal to the task. Already some of the younger players have demonstrated that they are all but ready for international play. Next year more youthful shoulders may carry the burden of the cup's defense. This year the veterans have lived up to their reputations and the traditions of American tennis.

THE DONCASTER ST. LEGER.

The St. Leger, which was run Wednesday at Doncaster, in Yorkshire, is always the latest in date of the five real "classic" races of England. The other four are decided earlier in the season, the Two Thousand Guineas and the One Thousand Guineas at Newmarket in April, and the Derby and the Oaks on Epsom Downs in June. They increase progressively in length with the advance of the months. The two Newmarket races are run over a mile, the two at Epsom over a mile and a half, and the one at Doncaster over a mile three quarters and 132 yards. All five are for 3-year-olds at fixed weights. The One Thousand Guineas and the Oaks are for fillies only; the other three are open to both colts and fillies, but not to geldings.

The St. Leger is not only the longest of these great races, but it is also the oldest established and sometimes the most valuable. The first contest for it took place 151 years ago for the modest stake of $750, but last year the stake is said to have amounted to the huge sum of $57,000. It is the ambition of every race horse owner in the British Empire and in Continental Europe, and of many Americans also, to win the Epsom Derby, on account of the wonderful kudos attached to that performance, but some of them are just as keen to annex the St. Leger, because of the great test it provides of stamina as well as of speed. No nonstaying horse, and no faint-hearted one either, can hope to negotiate the testing Town Moor track at Doncaster with success.

Some of the interest was taken from Wednesday's race because, under an absurd rule of the Turf Club, Call Boy, winner of this year's Epsom Derby, was eliminated from competition through the death of his nominator, Frank Curzon, who was also his breeder and owner. The racing public is always curious to see whether the glory gained at Epsom will be increased or diminished in the longer, harder, and more grueling contest at Doncaster. On the other hand, the absence of Call Boy, sold recently, by the way, for more money than was ever hitherto paid for any horse, gave the St. Leger a more open appearance, and the betting consequently took a wide range. An outsider often wins it, but on this occasion the public made a good selection, for the favorite, Viscount Astor's filly, Book Law, starting at the short price of 7 to 4 against, came home first from the field of sixteen, an easy victor by three lengths over Sir Victor Sassoon's Hot Night, who in turn was five lengths in advance of the third, Sir Abe Bailey's Son and Heir.

The form worked out fairly consistently, for Book Law, second to Cresta Run in the One Thousand Guineas and beaten only a head by Beam in the Oaks, subsequently won the Coronation Stakes at Ascot, the Welsh Oaks, and the Gratticks Stakes and the Nassau Stakes at Goodwood, all of them highly meritorious performances. The fact that she is a filly proves that there is something in the old English racing adage that September is the mares' month. Hot Night, too, ran in accordance with his previous record. Fourth in the Two Thousand Guineas and afterward winner of the Sedmire Plate at York over one and one-quarter miles, he was second to Call Boy in the Derby and, running consistently, filled the same position behind Book Law on Wednesday.

In winning his first St. Leger, Viscount Astor may have been fortunate in having one formidable competitor removed by the decree of fate. On the other hand, it may well be that Book Law is in the same class as Call Boy. If these two should ever meet on the race track, a spirited contest may be confidently anticipated. In any case, whatever their respective merits may be, no one will grudge the ennobled expatriate his Doncaster victory because, as a non-bettor, he runs his horses for the pure love of sport and in the interest of sound breeding and honest racing.

IN THE BLOOD.

The sale of a seat on the New York Stock Exchange early in the week for $230,000, even though the figure was exceeded on the following day, contains at least one interesting element. The purchase was made by a gentleman who previously had been a member of the exchange, but who sold out in March, 1926, for $145,000. After about a year and a half as a nonmember he bought back, paying an advance of $55,000. A similar incident occurred earlier in the year, differing from this only in that the purchaser's period of nonmembership was only for several months.

Repurchase of memberships at greatly advanced prices can mean but two things at most—either that the purchaser believes the investment to be sound and that he will be able to sell out at a future date with a profit, or that membership in the exchange is in the nature of a drug, which, once tasted, is always thereafter necessary. Possibly both considerations enter in.

In support of the former it might be pointed out that during one day's trading this week 75 issues were carried up to new highs for the year or longer, and 30 of these were established during the first 45 minutes of trading. Furthermore, business expects that it will pick up considerably in the fall. The optimistic Hoover survey of business conditions has placed the general favorable impression a great deal. The approach of an active bull market is indicated.

Membership in the exchange, however, once participated in, can not be lightly cast aside. The excitement of it, the uncertainty of it, the frequent chances to clean up, become so much part and parcel of the individual that he is lost when he is forced to forego them. Once a trader, always a trader, for it gets into the blood.

FOOD SANITATION.

Early in June a Center Market food dealer was fined for failure properly to screen and protect a display of honey as provided under District Health Department regulations. The dealer denied the right of District authorities to proceed against him on Federal territory, governed normally by regulations of the Department of Agriculture for the conduct of the market, and the case is now up for review before the Court of Appeals. The Commissioners take the view that it is their duty to guard the health of the community, and that they may go anywhere within their jurisdiction, to proceed against any one who violates certain regulations.

There is no more important duty of government than to guard the health of its citizens. If illness were an individual matter, if there were no danger of communication of disease, there would be little need for health departments or sanitary regulations. From but one source of infection, however, an epidemic may be born, and for this reason it is a vitally important function of government to enact and enforce stringent regulations governing food and its display, sanitation and all other matters from which disease may result.

The Department of Agriculture enforces certain regulations regarding the conduct of Center Market. Apparently, it does not deem necessary a ban against the exposure of food to flies and dust. The Health Department has found such a regulation necessary for other parts of the city, and there should be no exemption made for Center Market dealers. If it is decided that the local government has no jurisdiction over the display of foods in the market, the Department of Agriculture should tighten up its regulations.

American labor evidently finds no inspiration in the siren voices of the Soviet.

The real surprise would be for the President to wear that ten-gallon hat around Washington.

State Senator Ball Tells Cherrystone Group County Must Push Program.

LIMITS OF ALEXANDRIA

Chamber Official Declares County Will Fight Expansion Attempt.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST, Tel. Clar. 509, Clarendon, Va. Senator State Frank L. Ball, speaking at a mass meeting of citizens of Arlington County held last night in the Cherrystone School Auditorium under the auspices of the Arlington County unit of the National Boulevard Association, declared the time has come when the citizens of Arlington County must forget differences and work for a definite and good program. "The new Memorial Bridge will be open in a few years and we must be prepared with a proper approach to it," Senator Ball declared.

"The citizens of the county should get behind the county officials and aid them in raising the funds needed to build the bridge. In conference with Col. Shirley, Senator Ball said that he had the letter to the supervisors very plain. The direct road is a local road and will receive no State aid.

One plan to get the funds suggested by Ball is to put all the gasoline money into the construction of the direct road.

Opposed now on the part of the City of Alexandria to its limits into Arlington County will be opposed by the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, according to Millford W. Wits, secretary.

"Arlington County will use every power within its means to resist any of the moves taken to incorporate the limits of Alexandria," he said.

"So far the most friendly relations exist between Arlington County and Alexandria, and it is the hope of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce to promote this section of northern Virginia with the confidence that there is enough room for development in each section for individual growth without Alexandria attempting to step in and take a part of it," declared Wits.

"Arlington County citizens wish to remain in the county and Alexandria will be most unwise to make any attempt to disturb these friendly relations by attempting to annex any part of the territory of the county," Wits concluded.

Charles R. Taylor, the Democratic candidate for the office of clerk of the circuit court of the county will speak at the monthly meeting of the Fort Myer Citizens Association Monday night. The meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Woodrow Wilson School, Wilson boulevard, at 8 o'clock.

W. Thomas French, who has announced his withdrawal as candidate for the office of attorney general, attorney of the county, has been chosen as the campaign manager for Amos C. Crouse, candidate for Commonwealth's attorney.

Col. H. G. Shirley, chairman of the State Highway Commission, has agreed to favor the widening of the Lee highway through Cherrystone and will submit the proposition to the commission at their meeting which will be held in December, according to State Senator Frank L. Ball.

Funeral services for Miles J. Eastman, 83 years old, retired business man of Cherrystone, will be held this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the mortuary chapel of Clyde J. Nichols, 4209 Ninth street northwest, the Rev. Perry F. Nichols, pastor of the Clarendon Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

The senator was advised, Platt said, that the board had authority to establish rates under a decision by the Attorney General in 1919, which directed that the board establish a reasonable rate of 3½ percent for the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank in place of a 4 per cent rate.

Platt said he had opposed reduction of the rates at the board meeting, but "to add whether or not our board members had taken a similar position. He also said that several days ago Senator Glass, of Virginia, a Democrat on the Senate banking committee, had visited the board members and proposed the reduction of the Chicago rate on the ground that it was arbitrary and not within the meaning of the Federal Reserve act. The senator conferred principally, he continued, with Charles S. Holman, of the board.

Return to Illinois.Seattle, Wash., Sept. 9 (A.P.)—Harry H. Hill, suspected 22-year-old slayer of his aged mother, today was being taken back to Streator, Ill., to voluntarily face trial.Guarded by three Illinois officers and accompanied by his father, who believes him to be innocent, the fugitive started East by train last night. He is due in Chicago Sunday.The asserted matricide joked with his captors and seemed apparently unconcerned over the prospect of a fight for life."Are you glad you're going back?"
some on asked."Yes, but I'm not sure I like this way," the prisoner smiled, glancing around his train compartment. "The old flavor was a lot better way of traveling."

"Alleged Mustache" Gone.

Hill's flight to the coast from Streator was by automobile, and the sale of the "old flavor" to a Seattle garage led to his arrest last Saturday night.The youth appeared carefree as he began the trip. Seattle police rules had been relaxed to allow him to visit a barber shop in company of a detective to have a week's beard removed."And I hope you notice my alleged mustache that you guys all talked about is shaved off, too," he remarked to newspaper men. The mustache was grown during the cross-continent flight.Emmanuel Capraro, 9, who was playing and three in the automobile.

innocence in the slaying of his mother of the Streator fugitive had been made wish that he be taken back to his home town for an early trial.

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 9—Instructions given by Judge Frank P. Christian today in the corporation court to a jury trying Norvel Bryant, who appealed from the municipal court, where he was fined on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, were in conflict with the municipal court. Judge Christian instructed the jury that a man must be intoxicated or sufficiently under the influence to cause harm to himself or some one else, to warrant a conviction.
This resulted in Bryant being acquitted.Judge F. W. Whitaker, in municipal court, held that one drink is sufficient to warrant a conviction. Under this definition there have been numerous convictions in that court in recent months.18TH GUNMAN IS SLAIN

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 9 (A.P.)— Alphonse Palazzolo, 30, notorious gunman for mobsters, was killed here today in a new outbreak of gang warfare, which has cost eighteen lives in the past two years.Police believed Palazzolo had been marked for death by friends of three occurred when they had been split in lured Russo and Spicuzza to their death and had Giamanco killed because he boasted that he would take Russo's place.Palazzolo, dressed in new and gaudy garment, was loitering near a poolroom today when four men in an automobile stopped and began firing shotguns and pistols. Palazzolo fell to the ground with twenty wounds. Beside the body police found a pistol which had just been fired.Emmanuel Capraro, 9, who was playing

A statement issued by the Messrs. Shubert, sponsors of the hour, says, "This broadcast will mark the first time any portion of the 'Circus Princess' or any member of the cast has utilized the radio." Stations WEAF, New York; WEER, Boston; WTC, Hartford; WGR, Buffalo; WGK, Schenectady, and WEBH, Chicago, will be linked together for this broadcast. The Week-Enders, lead by Bob Tessmann and the Deaf Band, will be heard on shore resorts tonight at 8:30 o'clock. The station, conducted by the Bergen Broadcasting Co., is one of the best known radio broadcasters in Europe.

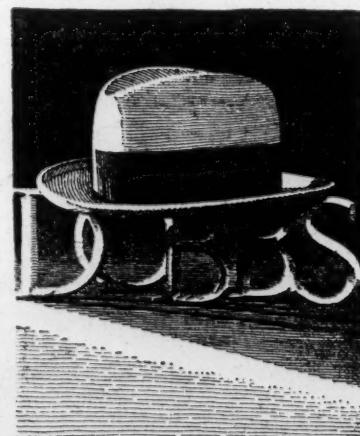

While in that city Mr. Huber also visited the birthplace of Edvard Grieg, the well-known Norwegian composer, whose works frequently are heard on the radio.

The Homemaker

SATURDAY again, and the order of our day is to be not one, but two menus. In addition I hope to pass along a recipe sent to our column from a friend who, even in this its early beginning, feels that we are, with our "get-together" department, sure to be of assistance to homemakers of our community. But first of all, our menu.

Since our cheese dish yesterday offers us little time for our dinner, let us with which to start our dinner tonight, to market we must go, and for tonight shall we purchase a small amount of lamb from the shoulder that it may be made into fillets to saute, and for tomorrow a chicken that may be cooked a la Maryland.

SATURDAY DINNER.

Clear Soup (omit if desired)
Crackers
Lamb Fillets, Sauted
String Beans
Peaches with Cream
Lamb Fillets, Sauted

Remove the bones from two and a half pounds of lamb cut from the fore quarter of the animal, cut them into strips about three-quarters of an inch thick. With a broad-bladed instrument of some sort flatten these pieces and arrange them on a plate. Cover with a dressing made of vinegar and oil, equal parts, a small white onion (green and white) of parsley chopped very fine. To this add the necessary salt and pepper. Pour this dressing over the lamb and allow it to remain over night or all day closely covered. Then, just before serving, saute them in just sufficient butter to keep them from sticking to the frying pan into which they are dropped.

The other recipes of this menu will, I think, require no particular explanation. A few drops of onion juice added to the cream sauce for the potatoes gives to this dish a pleasant zest without giving it a particularly recognizable flavor.

How Many Can You Answer?

Each question counts ten. If you answer eight correctly, your intelligence rating is 80 per cent. Actual tests reveal that eight out of ten correct is college standard; six out of ten correct is high school standard; four out of ten correct is grammar school standard. Less than four correct is uneducated standard.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

She Argues.

MY Dear Miss McDonald: I imagine that my troubles will be a terrible bore to you, but I am very anxious to have your advice on a subject that may mean quite a lot to me.

My fiancee is a graduate of a normal school and hopes to teach this fall. Her parents are both engineers and are very anxious for her to teach and take a college course in the evenings, until she has enough credits for her degree.

I am a high school graduate and have been engaged in business for quite a while. I am not interested in my business affairs as she is in her school work, if not more so, because I know that she only intends to teach until she completes her college work, while I have to work most of my life.

We are continually arguing, and I get tired of hearing a lot of "psychobunk." It seems that we just can't get along without a lot of "blowups." All she does is argue, argue.

I certainly don't want to marry her if we are going to quarrel all the time. I wonder if you would be kind enough to make a suggestion or two.

R. C. C.

If the girl argues, don't marry her. The woman who must argue should give in for a better state of matrimony. She should be a tenant in real estate or take the stump in politics. But in the home she is a sore trial.

MODISH MITZI

This is the last sad day. Not that Mitzi looks sad as she runs a pencil through her list of appointments with customers. Dad has decided that it will be cheaper to let Mitzi buy her frocks in the good old way rather than as an adjunct to a really weighty business. He doesn't want Mitzi to have a breakdown! Polly's velvet coat is part of a new fall ensemble and is notable for the fact that it is not trimmed with fur. Polly's little brimless hat is felt, with a band of velvet ribbon that matches her coat trimming. Mitzi's bat—but it's too smart for you to do it justice in this picture. See next door.

SUNDAY DINNER.

Consonne with noodles (narrow) Celeri Olives

Chicken a la Maryland Candied Sweet Potatoes

Creamed Cauliflower

Stuffed small Tomatoes on Lettuce Leaves with Mayonnaise

Cream Brulee with Whipped Cream

Black Coffee

Chicken a la Maryland.

This recipe requires for its construction two chickens that are not old and which are, therefore, tender. If an old chicken must be used, let it simmer in salted water before attempting to prepare it in this manner.

Dress the chickens and cut them in small pieces as for frying. Sprinkle the pieces well with salt and pepper, dip them first in beaten eggs and then finely rolled cracker crumbs placed in a roasting pan with pieces of butter (or with drippings), and bake for a half hour. Turn the chickens over, add more butter and adding more butter as necessary. Remove to a heated platter and cover with a white sauce made from the drippings in the roasting pan and sweet milk thickened to gravy consistency.

Cream Brulee With Whipped Cream.

2 cupsful brown sugar.

1 quart sweet milk

3 tablespoonsful cornstarch.

3 eggs.

1/2 cupful pecan nuts (salted).

1 teaspoonful vanilla.

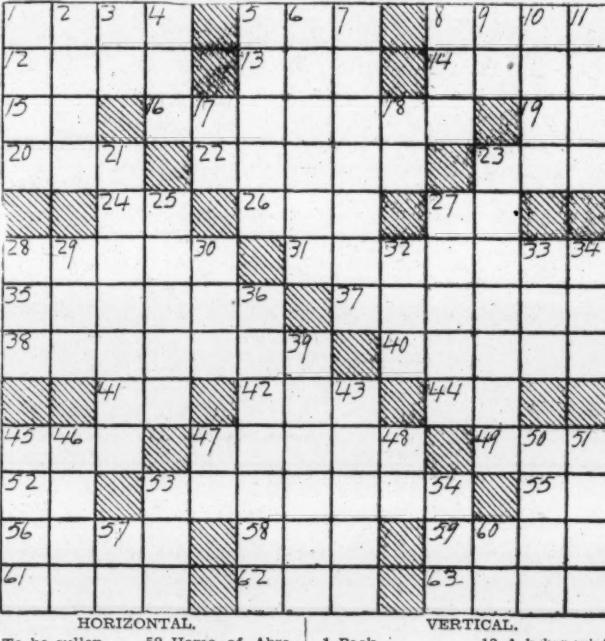

Put sugar in a frying pan and add the milk which has been made like warm. When the sugar is dissolved add the cornstarch moistened with a little milk. Cook until the cornstarch taste is entirely gone. Add the vanilla, the nuts and vanilla. Put in dessert glasses and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Your recipe, Mrs. Howard, I am going to hold for Monday. For some reason our space is consumed, our menu recipes having made use of it today.

On Monday we shall have your Prince Albert cake.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE PLUMBER'S FRIEND.

Now whenever I ring the plumber up to tell him the drain is stopped, he brings a stick with a rubber cup. A stick from an old broom chopped. The thing may be bought in a ten-cent store. If a dime you'd wish to spend And go to the girl on the hardware floor. And ask for "the plumber's friend." Time was I wondered whence came that name. And why on his crowded bench, So simple a thing more love should claim. And hammer or gimlet or wrench. But cometh the plumber man to me To open that throttled drain.

(Copyright, 1927, Edgar A. Guest.)

It Was Good While It Lasted!

He giveth one jab with that stick, and he goes back to his shop again.

"How much," I ask, "will you take from me For using that neat device?"

Three dollars for opening drains," says he. "Is the lowest possible price."

Now I know why plumbers that are stickin' it to you.

And call it their faithful friend, For nothing they have in their kits earns more.

Good silver for them to spend.

And if ever the wolf shall come to my door,

And my fortune I'd quickly mend, I shall hurry me out to a ten-cent store.

And buy me a "plumber's friend."

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

ANSWERS TO THE VERY THIN.

EAR Viola Paris: I am too thin and should like to know what outdoor life help me? Should I wear long-sleeved dresses? My arms are very thin.

F. S.

General advice to the underweight:

Daily essentials in the thin person's diet are proteins, such as milk, eggs (if they agree), fruit, such as prunes, raisins and tigs, and vegetables, including beans and green vegetables.

Minerals, such as fruits, green vegetables and whole-wheat grains.

Fats and carbohydrates, such as potatoes, rice, corn, cereals, whole-wheat bread, puddings, butter, cheese and vegetable oil.

At least a pint of milk a day, with one glass in the morning and another in the evening. At least six glasses of cool water during the day.

Those who are underweight often make the mistake of supposing that rich foods are nourishing foods. Candies are modern evils and should have no place in any one's diet. And there is need to eat more than one comfortably can.

While people should strive to lead a regular, well-balanced life, a regular routine for bedtime mealtimes and the exercise period should be carried out as punctiliously as possible. Nine hours of sleep are beneficial to the body trying to build tissue and muscle. And relaxation is important once in the afternoon and just before dinner is strengthening.

Exercise for the too slender is especially desirable when taken in the open air. It should be indulged in nor any movements done to the point of fatigue. This does not mean that one should coddle oneself. Walking and swimming are ideal for breathing and bending are equally good.

A milk diet is sometimes the best solution in extreme cases. However, this should only be taken under the supervision of a specialist. Cod-liver oil builds fine muscles, and when a person can take it (one-half pint cuts the extreme oiliness) is beneficial.

Further, the woman of nervous, worrisome temperament must take herself in hand and rout these harshnesses of age and nervousness. Take on a sunny outlook and your body will gradually make up for the lack of exercise.

It goes without saying that defects such as too thin arms, scrawny arms and elbows should be becomingly hidden until they can appear with credit to their owners.

Blondie: You should weigh about 110 pounds. Your sister is, by the law of averages, about corollary weight.

Yours, etc.,

Viola Paris

New Highs Scored Before Market Turns Erratic; Steel Yields Grudgingly.

MOST OILS HOLD UP WELL

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Sept. 9.—After a moderate display of strength here and there throughout the list, notably in United States Steel, the market weakened, and recessions ranging from fractions to about 3 points occurred in about two-thirds of the listed stocks. A few other issues, such as United Fruit, Pacific Telephone & Telegraph, International Telephone & Telegraph, Burroughs Adding Machine, Cushman and Shubaker, showed Steel into new high territory. Mac Truck stocks also were strong. The market was erratic and full of cross-currents, with the bears winning almost every tilt.

There is no brokerage loans of money at 9.25 per cent, reported by the Federal Reserve system, helpful to the selling crowd in the foreign market, their cause received another boost when the call money rate, which has held at 3½ per cent since early in August, had risen to 4 per cent, as banks called $25,000,000 to meet withdrawals of Western funds.

Had the market been so inclined, it might well have halted the increased demand for funds in the West, as a pick-up in the market has been so much talked about recently, which was verified by the August figures on steel output production. But the cheap money argument for buying stocks has been emphasized to such an extent that the strength which tends to lessen the strength of the argument must be an unsettling influence.

Last year the 5 per cent call money rate, which prevailed in August, held through until Sept. 21. Possibly a low-voltage condition had as much to do with today's market movement as anything else. Alternating currents and rallies followed one another from the opening until the final hour, when selling in the leading speculative favorites in some of the fast-moving specialties, which overcame all efforts to check it through the usual medium of bidding up a handful of selected issues.

Steel, common, credited at present with a strong position, moved up a very strong pool, strengthened its position, and was the top of leadership by its remarkable performance during the day. Like other pivotal issues, it was disposed to yield only the outset but powerful buying quieted up 6½ points from the morning low, and then hit the call of the call money rate. Thereafter, it fought stubbornly against heavy selling and gave ground grudgingly, and finally closed at a net gain of 2½ points.

Both General Motors stocks were heavily traded in and the extremely heavy offerings were so well absorbed that they finished the day only moderately lower, and old shares dropping a point and the new, 1½, and Hudson, ¾ on the day. Yellow Truck advanced moderately on a small turnover.

Houston Oil fluctuated widely, at one time rising 1½ points above the low of the day, and closed with a fractional net gain. Most other members of the group held fairly steady.

The merchandising stocks, sulphur, carborundum, equipment, sugars, tobacco and rubber, for the most part suffered losses extending to 3 points.

Colorado Fuel & Iron showed remarkable resistance to selling pressure, released by the declaration of officials of the company that there was nothing to justify the brisk advance in the price of its issues. The stock closed with a net loss of 2½.

Railway shares had little part in the market of the day, the group as a whole being satisfied to drift quietly and narrowly.

European exchanges generally showed a firm tone, with slight gains showing in Dutch, Italian and Spanish rates, and the Peruvian pound improved 2 points.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Sept. 9 (A.P.)—Reactions followed yesterday's big advance in the cotton market, with some contracts, which had sold up to 24.72 cents, located on Thursday, broke to 23.61 in late trading, and the point was pointed out yesterday's final quotation and closed at 23.66. The general market closed down, at net declines of 33 to 40 points.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of 10 to 13 points in response to Liverpool's advance, but weather advice. Reactions of a few points after the call on trade buying and the increase in cotton demand were inspired by the bullish view of the market figures, but they met increased offerings and after selling up to 24.08 for December, the market closed down.

A disposition to take profits on long cotton probably was increased by the market's failure to meet the expectations of the Government crop report on Thursday, which was 2.42 million bales below yesterday's closing quotation and 108 to 116 points below the market's opening. Closing quotations were within a few points of the lowest.

Exports were received the Japanese mills were following the advance in the market for American cotton and were expected to buy large quantities within the next two or three weeks, but Liverpool and the continent were credited with selling here during the Private cables said London and continental selling had been absorbed by Mac Truck, and cotton and trade cables in Liverpool, but the market's day's crop report had disturbed Manchester and that buyers of cotton were well satisfied.

Exports for today were 41,340 bales, making 539,785 for the season. Port making 49,267. U. S. port stocks, 191,970.

PUBLIC UTILITIES BONDS
AT YEAR'S BEST PRICES

High-Grade Rails and Industries Irregular, With Main Trend Upward.

FOREIGN GROUP IS ACTIVE

New York, Sept. 9 (Associated Press). Strength and activity of a number of public utility lines was the outstanding development in the bond market today, several of them advancing large fractions to equal their previous best prices of the year. High-grade railway and industrial mortgages displayed considerable irregularity, but with time money rates continued to rise to the level the market was up to date. There were few sharp changes, but most quotations were only fractionally away from the levels of the last two or three weeks.

With a long list of new offerings of bonds in the utility field, activity of bonds in this group assumed added interest. Expectations of favorable reports from various gas, electric and traction associations, as well as the prosperous condition of the industry as a whole, had led many and the trading in these issues unusually attractive at present prices. Cities Service Power was among the leaders hovering around their top price on buying regarded as "window dressing" on the eve of the Cities Service offering expected within the next week.

Cincinnati Gas & Electric, the Detroit Edison issues and several others were moving at or just under their best 1927 prices.

Rather heavy buying of Seaboard Air Lines is showing profit advantage, and a few other railway issues gained fractionally. Most bonds of this class, however, were slightly lower, including Erie 5s. The Paul Hains, which recently had large gains to within striking distances of new high territory, convertible rails were heavy, particularly Erie 4s, which lost 2½ points.

The foreign department was more active than in recent weeks. A move in a new peak of 99½ and United Kingdom 5½s touched their previous record before reacting. A few South American securities were freely offered, but received good support.

German and Italian issues were easy.

Second LIBOR 4½s, which are exchangeable for the new 3½ per cent certificates, were dealt in to the extent of more than $250,000, at 100%. Other Federal Government obligations sagged slightly.

PLANS FOR ESTATE TAX ABOLISHMENT TO BE BEGUN TODAY

State Delegates Will Outline Plea to Be Presented Congress.

CAMPAIGN FOR REPEAL INCLUDES OTHER LAWS

Legislation Held Hostile to Governors' Wishes on Joint Levies.

The groundwork for the National Conference of State Legislatures at which a determined effort will be made to have the Federal estate tax repealed and curb further encroachment on the sovereignty of the States will be laid today at a special meeting of the national delegates from between 30 and 35 States at the Raleigh Hotel.

These delegates will select a date, prepare a program and outline methods of procedure for the National Conference which, it is expected, will be attended by approximately 25 State governors who will join in presenting to Congress the program formulated by the committee today.

Feeling that Congress has broken down the barriers and entered fields which should be left exclusively to the States for taxation, the delegates will prepare a program which will include, in addition to the repeal of the Federal estates tax, the amendment or repeal of other legislative acts regarded as hostile to State interests, due regard for the wishes of State governors on questions of joint levies and a normal peace-time plan for taxation under which the rights of the States will be safeguarded.

Party Lines Wiped Out.

Virginia and the delegates who will attend the meeting today are members of their State legislatures or State officials. The meeting was called by Lee Satterwhite, former speaker of the Texas Legislature and chairman of the organization committee of State officials. Particular sections have been eliminated in the selection of delegates to attend the meeting, he said.

Members of the National Council of State Legislatures will be limited to delegates duly appointed by State executives under grants made by their respective legislatures to the Standing Committees will be appointed, on which each member State of the council will have representation.

It will be the duty of these committees to keep in close touch with Congress, acquainting themselves with the various activities of the Federal Government, to consider carefully existing and pending legislation, and to make such representations to the council as they deem appropriate.

PROPOSAL OF MARRIAGE DENIED BY 'SANTA CLAUS'

Woman Assumed That He Was "Rich Old Miser," Court Told by Taylor.

WED AT TIME, HE SAYS

Wiley P. Taylor, 61-year-old department store Santa Claus, 1320 Twenty-first street northwest, Washington, told a judge yesterday he had agreed to marry Mrs. Helen L. Baird, 31 Carroll avenue, Takoma Park, Md., unbosomed himself yesterday in circuit court and explained that he did not propose marriage to Mrs. Baird and that he could not have married her if he had been so inclined.

Washington Attorney Thurman B. Dixon, the defendant, who already is married, says that Mrs. Baird knew, or could have known, at the time of the alleged proposal, on March 17, that he was a married man.

In the second place, Taylor says, he was admitted to St. Elizabeths Hospital on September 20, 1904, suffering from acute melancholia, a type of insanity, and that he has not yet been restored to his former legal status with regard to his sanity.

He never assumed the role of a suitor, Taylor says, and he further explained that "their courtships were the result of Mrs. Baird's insistent and solicitous efforts to commercialize their acquaintance to her pecuniary advantage in the unwarranted assumption that he was a rich old miser, an easy mark for a cunning and crafty business woman who was ripe in experience, that her conduct and conversation were such as clearly disclosed her purpose."

Taylor was married a few days before the alleged proposal to Mrs. Baird. He insists that he was legally disqualified from becoming the husband of Mrs. Baird because of his voluntary commitment to St. Elizabeths Hospital. Taylor says this disqualification affects the ceremony he did go through with his present wife is a matter not now before the courts.
